Leopold Jansa (1795 – 1875) was a Bohemian violinist and composer. He was a member of the Imperial Orchestra in Vienna and in 1834 was appointed musical director and professor of the violin at the University of Vienna. Among his pupils was Wilma Neruda who became Lady Hallé and was the first female violinist to establish a truly international reputation. He became the leader of the famous Schuppanzigh quartet after the death of Ignaz Schuppanzigh..

In 1851 he was invited to London as a member of the jury of string instrument specialists at the Great Exhibition, and while there took part in a concert in aid of Hungarian refugees, failing to take account of the fact that it was his employers in Vienna who had caused the Hungarians to leave. The Imperial Court were not amused, deprived him of his rank and banished him from Austria. For nearly 20 years he enriched the musical life of London as player and teacher. He was pardoned in 1868 and returned to Vienna in 1870
